

Help us find innovative ways to protect precious places in B.C.

A cut in Heritage BC's annual funding from the government means that we have had to find innovative ways to continue supporting heritage conservation in our province. Your help has made the difference. Thank you for continued support as members, conference participants, advertisers and contributors to the Heritage BC Quarterly, along with your help for our new Skills Training program and annual Heritage Week celebrations.

Support important education and heritage conservation work.

We are proud of our recent work with heritage commissions and municipalities in which we offer education and training, and help develop policies and procedures that ensure the conservation of some of our most precious places in B.C. At the 2014 annual conference more participants than ever enjoyed value-added learning and networking opportunities.

Since February 2013, in our new role as sole fund advisors for the Heritage Legacy Fund, we've helped distribute over $150,000 to B.C. communities for heritage conservation and awareness projects. In November 2014, we've approved distribution of another $100,000.

Help us continue on the road to financial self sufficiency.

A new Strategic Plan and a Sustainable Business Model are our road maps to financial self sufficiency. New staff members are in place, the board has grown and diversified, and we have developed programs and events to meet the needs of a growing membership. Heritage BC's business model shows a diversified revenue mix that includes grants, fees for services, advertising revenue, and corporate and individual donations.
